The Twelfth Convention

The Twelfth Convention of our Brotherhood was the most successful and comprehensive Convntion in the history of our Brotherhood. The delegates assembled there from every section of our jurisdiction, and represented over 18,400 members out of a total membership in good standing of 27,000, which was over two-thirds of our membership. It is very rarely that a Convention of any Organization has representation therein for more than 50 per cent of their membership. It shows and proves the wonderful progress our Brotherhood has made in the past two years.

Like all Conventions, there were differences of opinion on the many questions of moment that were discussed and decided by the delegates. The question of the organizing of Female Electrical Workers was a very important one, and after a thorough discussion and consideration, the Convention decided to organize them throughout our jurisdiction.

The question of increasing our death benefit from $300.00 to $500.00 was defeated, as the delegates decided the time was not opportune to adopt higher death benefit than our present one. It was decided, after a thorough discussion, to increase our per capita tax to the I. O. to 40 cents per member per month, which is 10 cents more than we are paying at the present time. This additional per capita tax is to be divided and used as follows: Twenty-five cents is to be placed in the General Fund; 5 cents to be placed in the Death Benefit Fund; 5 cents in the Defense Fund, and 5 cents in the Convention Fund. While the additional 10 cents will help considerably, still it is far from being enough, as the time has arrived when our Brotherhood must take its position among the other trades, financially speaking, in the Labor Movement. We are badly in need of Organizers in all parts of the country. In order to maintain sufficient Organizers, it is necessary for us to have sufficient income to pay them. Without that income we are not in a position to thoroughly watch over the interests of our Brotherhood.

The interest displayed, however, in regard to the finances of our Organization and the arguments advanced thereon at our Convention show conclusively that the membership is waking up to the fact that an Organization can only produce results when the membership thereof is willing to place sufficient funds in the Organization to make it an effective one. The argument that has been smoldering for years, that there must be sufficient fuel provided in order to keep the machinery running smoothly and steadily, found expression in the action to raise the per capita tax, even the 10 cents.

It was also decided that it would be wise to provide for the nucleus of a Defense Fund. It was pointed out in able argument that the sum of 5 cents placed in the Defense Fund could not possibly produce an immediate fund that would meet the calls that all felt sure would be made upon it, but the intent as expressed in our Convention, was to create this fund and allow it to accumulate for the next two years, which would give our next Convention a fund that will doubtless be made the foundation of a Defense Fund such as the most progressive Organizations have maintained for years, and will eventually place the Brotherhood in position to meet any exigencies that may arise and guarantee to the members thereof a steady fund to call upon when involved in difficulties.

While many spirited discussions and contests took place, the strong undercurrent of good feeling was always in evidence, and the fact that it was conclusively proven that our funds were safeguarded for their special purposes in such a manner as to insure the success of our Organization, was in part responsible for this. Before the Convention many stories were circulated to the effect that there would not be funds enough in evidence to hold a Convention, even though only a few delegates responded, was clearly proven to be a falsehood made of whole cloth, and the finance committee's report that all expenses would be met as well as full railroad fare for delegates and $40.00 per diem for each delegate, proves conclusively that our funds were being held intact as provided for in our Constitution. This was commented upon by the delegates, and in the face of the fact that no assessments have been levied by our organization "other than the semi-annual death benefit" during this entire secession fight, made this condition a remarkable one. With the Secession forces claiming 80 per cent of the Electrical Workers, and having to levy assessments continually through the fight, it brought out in strong relief the fact that where our financial system was sound their financial system was radically wrong, or their veracity had become badly rusted from lack of use. The increase of per capita to our Convention proves that when the membership of an Organization finds that their funds are being used as their laws prescribe, they are entirely willing to make an increased effort to better the resources of the Organization, knowing that their trust has not been abused.

The receipt of a telegram from the Secession forces holding a Convention at that time in Denver, brought out the fact that the members of our Organization as represented by their delegates, don't wish any further panderings or dilatory tactics indulged in. The telegram mentioned stated the fact that the Seceders' Convention had selected a committee of twelve to provide steps toward amalgamation, and asked would our Convention appoint a like committee. This telegram was placed before the Convention by the officers without comment of any kind, and from the floor there came promptly a motion to table the communication, which was carried unanimously. This evidenced the fact that our entire Convention was aware that this was only another attempt to bring about more delay and confusion in the hope of delaying a decision by the Supreme Court, of the State of Ohio, which is due within the next few months, and it was made plain to the officers of the Organization, the demand of our membership for positive action and their desire to see the fight against Secession carried on without regard for those who were responsible for the Secession Movement or their adherents.

The fact that there are actually more members in good standing at the present time than there was before the Secession Movement occurred, was very gratifying news to all of the delegates, and the closest scrutiny could reveal nothing other than that our conditions were better than ever before, and the delegates without exception leaving the Convention, knowing that the Brotherhood, after passing through one of the most bitter fights to which any Organization has ever been subjected, is now on the high road to peace and prosperity, which is due to an Organization of our standing in the Labor Movement as well as in the world at large.

Unveiling of Monument Erected to the Memory of Joseph H. Alandar

The unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of our late Brother Joseph H. Alandar, by Local Union No. 134, of Chicago, at the Spring Grove Cemetery, Cincinnati, Ohio, on the afternoon of October 6, 1913, was a scene that will never be forgotten by those attending the ceremonies.

Brother Alandar was murdered by a cowardly assassin while performing his duties as representative of Local Union No. 134. His activity in the cause of our Brotherhood is known throughout our jurisdiction, and all who knew Brother Alandar had implicit confidence in his integrity and honesty.

Delegates to our Boston Convention from many parts of our country attended the ceremonies, and there were many tears shed by them when they gazed upon the beautiful monument which brought back to them recollections of Brother Alandar as a Brother and a sincere trades unionist. While Brother Alandar's loss to his beloved family was a great one, the fact that they knew that he was held in such high esteem by his fellow workers, that they remembered him and honored his memory by the erection of the most beautiful monument in the Spring Grove Cemetery, helps to cheer them in their hour of bereavement.

After the assassination of Brother Alandar, Local Union No. 134 elected a committee consisting of C. L. Hampton, P. H. Sullivan, M. J. Boyle, R. A. McGregor and J. Hazelton to arrange for the purchase of a monument to be erected to his memory. That they did their work well is demonstrated by the accompanying photographs.

The monument weighs about thirty tons. On the left is a statue of the Angel Gabriel carved out of solid granite, which is the most magnificent piece of art of its kind that we ever gazed upon. The angel that, with bowed head, is gazing down upon the grave of Brother Alandar, weighs about ten tons, and stands some six feet high. The massive granite tombstone, which is shown in the picture, weighs some twenty tons. The emblem of our Brotherhood is carved on the face of it, and the inscription, "Erected to the memory of Joseph H. Alandar, by Local Union No. 134, Chicago, Illinois." is carved below the emblem, and the name Alandar is carved in large letters below the inscription.

The monument, which is a very costly one, demonstrates the esteem in which Brother Alandar was held by the members of Local Union No. 134. It will be cared for by Local No. 212, of Cincinnati, Ohio, the Local in which Brother Alandar was initiated.

International President, F. J. McNulty, made the following address, during which time the monument was unveiled by the committee:

"We have assembled here today to pay tribute to the memory of our late beloved Brother, Joseph H. Alandar, who met his death at the hands of a cowardly assassin, while performing his duties as a Representative of Local Union No. 134, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

"As a man and as a Brother he was respected by all who knew him. His honesty and integrity was beyond reproach. His loyalty to the cause of our Brotherhood endeared him to us. His loss to us is a great one, but as great as is his loss to us, he is still a greater loss to his family, whom he loved and respected, his dear mother and father, his sisters and brothers, and his relations. As great as is his loss to them, they can, we hope, have at least a little consolation, as we, his Brothers in Fraternity and Fellowship, have, and that is the fact that he is a martyr to the cause of Organized Labor, that great and noble cause that has done so much for the uplift of the wage-earners of our country. And from the further fact that today he rests in peace and happiness in Heaven, and forever will he rest there in that peace and happiness which comes to all men who have done their duty on this earth to their fellowmen, and to the Great Creator, who, when we leave this world, will judge us all.

"The good deeds of our Brother in whose memory Local Union No. 134 has erected this most beautiful monument, which will be maintained by Local Union No. 212, we have inscribed on slabs of granite so that they will live forever, and his faults we have printed with a stick on the sands, that they would be soon washed away with the tides and forever forgotten.

"Our Dear Brother, Joseph H. Alandar, we loved and respected you, we will never forget you, may your soul rest in peace and happiness forever and ever."

The members of Brother Alandar's family were present, his dear old Mother and Father could not express in words their gratitude to the members of Local No. 134 for the honor bestowed upon their loved one. Many members of Local Union No. 212 assisted in the ceremonies, among them Brother Joseph Cullen and Thomas Howard, who spared no time or expense in seeing to it that those attending the ceremonies were well taken care of. Automobiles were furnished for all attending from their hotel to the cemetery and return.

All members of Local Union No. 134 have reasons to be proud of the work of their committee for the reason that it demonstrates that the efforts of a man who works faithfully and sincerely for the uplift of his fellow men and who is called from us without warning by the hand of a cowardly assassin, is not forgotten, and is appreciated by those in whose interest he struggles. All great causes of men since the inception of human life have brought forth men who have given up their lives for the cause they advocated. The cause of Organized Labor which has done so much for the emancipation of the wage earner of the world has furnished its share of martyrs in the history of the world. Brother Joseph H. Alander did his duty while he was with us and did it well. His loss to us is a great loss and those that knew him and who loved him find in their moments of sorrow and grief, solace in the fact that he died a martyr to the cause of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

IN MEMORIAM

EDITORIAL

J. P. N.

COMPROMISE. The word in itself is high-sounding and seems at first glance a beautiful word when used in connection with labor troubles. And in this connection is most frequently used. As soon as a labor trouble proves of even slight inconvenience to the public the cry is immediately raised Compromise, regardless of the matter of right and wrong in the case.

When a great corporation feels that a damage suit is going against them they hustle their smooth-tongued attorneys around to the bedside of the sufferer with a weird tale of how much concerned the company is for the welfare of the sufferer and the immediate needs of his family. He tells of the slow action of the courts (all too true in most cases) points out that immediate funds means better and more skilled attention for the patient and immediate relief from financial worry for his loved ones.

He dwells on the certainty of appeal of the case by the corporation if first judgment is against them and when he has played sufficiently on the fears of those injured he brings out the point "Compromise", that magic word, if employed, leaves the sufferer temporarily relieved of financial worry and the corporation relieved of responsibility and any care as to whether the sufferer dies or drags out an existence as a cripple for life or what becomes of his loved ones.

Compromise has ended their responsibility under the law and leaves their efficient corps of legal advisers free to spend their time kicking holes into any existing laws for labor's protection or corporation regulations until they look so much like a Swiss cheese that when they (the laws) are dragged up before a Supreme Court to determine their constitutionality the learned judge can almost detect an offensive odor emanating therefrom and decides that they have become spoiled in the making (good night law.)

Compromise, the cry of the crooked politician who finds himself discredited and not sharing in the spoils. Lately making the welkin ring with his shouts of the inflexible righteousness of his cause, now willing to see its political purity blended with the things that lately he termed in glowing and vitrolic phrases as the most damnable matter that ever festered out of a political ulcer.

Compromise, the last refuge of the greedy corporations when at last they are compelled to acknowledge the justice of the demands of their long suffering employees, when driven by storm of public opinion or call for more dividends by all mean let us compromise.

If you are entirely right, and I am wholly wrong, and I know it, by all means let us compromise for by doing so I will get something out of it, nearly half as rule, to which I am not at all entitled, but the magic cloak of compromise, "Like six feet of earth" makes us all the one size.

Men deliberately attempt to wreck an organization because they cannot entirely rule it. Start their campaign with deliberate deceit. Rally some to their standard through their pyrotechnic display of well-feigned enthusiasm to correct abuses that had their birth in minds of the gallery-playing disrupters, use every contorted argument that occurs to their mainly personal abuse of those opposing them run the full course of treachery and double-dealing, the English language, a language containing more vituperation and calumny than all other is too mild and does not contain adjectives or infectives enough to describe their scorn and hatred of the people they tried to ruin or the policies of the organization they tried to wreck.

Yet as soon as their poison vials are empty and time, that great adjuster of all things, has proven them absolutely rotten from the foundation of the structure they laid to the ridge pole of it and when there can be seen in the distance the harvest of their sowing, they turn to the still solid structure that they made (in their minds) herculean efforts to wreck, and in hopes of a refuge from the storms of their own brewing they come on the run shouting sanctuary, let me in, let us compromise.

Compromise carries the seeds of dissolution within itself. It has aptly been described as the surrender of the cowardly right to the vicious growling of the criminally wrong. There is a good, there is a bad. Wed them if you will, and their offspring will be a hybrid nonscript. And its name will be compromise.

There is Right lasting and peaceful as heaven. There is Wrong fitful and turbulent as hell. Blend the two if you can and when you have neither heaven or hell wherein to dwell you will be in the state of Compromise.

Telephone Operators Section

Editor of Electrical Worker.

Dear Sir and Brother:—Since the International convention and the State Branch have adjourned we have been very busy adjusting ourselves to our daily routine once more. We listened to a most interesting account from our delegates of the proceedings of the International convention recently held in this city. The delegates made it clearly understood to the members why they were allowed a voice but no vote at the I. C. One thing that was noticeable the night the report was given the full membership was present.

The new article that has been added to the Constitution is Article XXXIV, and many questions were asked pertaining to the same. The Local Union was not satisfied with the half representation but when the delegates proceeded to explain what the growth of the operator would be in a few years and the numbers of them throughout the U. S. they agreed to accept that section.

The section relative to male members not eligible to become members of Telephone Operators' Union was gone over thoroughly. The union thought that was a very good step taken by the convention to eliminate them from this local. In certain suburban exchanges there are young men who attend school days and work in the exchange at night. Now these men are receiving higher salary than the girls in the Metropolitan Exchanges who are doing almost twice the work. If these men are eliminated it means the girls will refuse to work with them and that will leave these positions for our union girls. We have a few of these men in our organization that joined at the time of our trouble last spring as the girls would not work with them and we were obliged to take them as the telephone installers claimed they were not in their jurisdiction and did not care to have any unpleasant feeling between the locals.

Another section the union was highly elated over. That telephone operators be chartered direct from the International office instead of a sub local. The local feels it is their only salvation to avoid dissension and interference on the part of other locals, too much ill advice. If we are chartered direct from the International office we shall be obliged to go to no one but International officers. It was explained to the delegates who attended the International convention the deplorable conditions that had existed in this local and how they had improved in eighteen months we had been organized. They promised to take back recommendations to their respective locals and we sincerely trust they carried out their intentions as it means much more to this organization than what the majority of the Brotherhood realizes. However, we will look for the earnest support of all members of the I. B. E. W. and when the new constitution is sent to the locals that all members will cast their vote in favor of Article XXXIV of the new constitution which covers and will protect the telephone operators.

The members were very anxious to know what the International intended to do in regard to organizing the operators. We are now asked that question daily. The delegates told of the many personal conversations they had with the various delegates who informed them on their return to their homes they intended to organize the operators. This is pleasing to hear, and at this time if any one of the Brotherhood are thinking of organizing the telephone operators and wish for any schedules or information we shall be only too glad to render the same. Organizing we are sadly in need of. Our union was never stronger than at the present time. Yet we must have more paces organized in order to obtain even better conditions than what we have. Recently I met an operator from the West who informed me her conditions were good. I asked her what she considered good marks after they had been in the employ of the company so many years they received a bonus of fifty dollars at the end of the year. I found that she was not earning as much as the Boston operators. Our minimum was $2.00 larger than what she received. They were not compensated for Sunday and holiday work, and yet she called these good conditions and could not understand how they could be bettered. I explained our old conditions to her and our new ones. She looked at me in amazement and could hardly credit what I told her and when she asked me how we succeeded in obtaining all these good conditions, I said, "through our wonderful organization all banded together to help one another." Since then I have received a letter from this operator requesting all the schedules we had sent to the company, the rules we are now working under and other general information, as it is her intention to organize the girls in her city although the seceders have a strong foot hold there. Girls like that deserve a great deal of credit and I know when the time comes for this girl to organize the girls in that city the local of men will give her all the assistance they possibly can. At present I cannot divulge the name of the city, as it would not be best. The girl might lose her position as well as all possibilities of an organization and there is no need of her sacrificing either.

The delegates laughingly told us the dear Brothers were some what inclined to think they were intimate friends of Emmiline Pankhurst, anxious to wield a gavel, and conduct business for the dear Brothers in general. In the West our sex have progressed more along those lines than the East who are clinging to their old conservative ideas, by allowing the men to wield the gavel, be the head of the family, and vote for the best man; but we are of the firm belief that when any question pertaining to the female members arises that the men should not legislate for them any more than the female members legislating on question pertaining to the male members. However, I trust the dear Brothers will not misinterpret the above paragraph as everything has been said with the best of intentions, and we do not wish to convey anything but the best of feeling to one, and all. We realize our delegates did their utmost to create a good impression at the convention, therefor we do not wish to spoil it by anything being misconstrued. The delegates regretted it was impossible to devote any more of their time than what they did on the wives of the delegates but they went to the convention for business and as it was their first time their work meant much to us, although we hope you will not think we wished to be selfish, at the same time we know the delegates fully understand the circumstances.

I have listened to many interesting accounts of the various parts of the U. S. and Panama, and which they intend at some future day to impart to the rest of the members.

Five girls represented this local at the State Branch convention at Fall River. I had the honor and pleasure of being one of them, and gleaned much which I feel will be of a great benefit to me in helping the organization. Perhaps we did not gain as many new ideas as the delegates who attended the International convention, but they had the advantage of us, they were away over two weeks and we were away four days. We met those from our own state and whose ideas would not be so varied as those from the United States, Canada and Panama.

The members are attending the meetings now the cold weather has arrived. As I stated previously we are running on a better business basis, and we are trying our utmost to install into our members the meaning of the word "Organization," and what it really means. There are many who understand the meaning of the word, those who were forced to work under undesirable conditions. Then there are those who do not understand. Those who came to work for the company after the conditions were improved and are under the impression the company granted them of their own volition, for their good efforts not because they were forced to when the girls had to join together collectively instead of individuals. Those are the ones who have to be kept constantly reminded what it would mean if they had no organization.

At one time we were of the opinion if we levied an assessment on the members and they refused to pay we could not oblige them to do it. It did not take us long to change our opinion. We know the girls will never give up their organization, it is the only chance they have of keeping their conditions or obtaining more. Now they pay their assessments before any dues are collected, and no grievances will be taken up or allowed to be adjudged until they are. We do not propose to allow members who are not in good standing to have the same rights and privilegss of the paid up members. That would be unfair. This is the way the officers of this organization look at these assessments. Since the girls have been organized, they have had their salary increased from $12 to $16 a month, not counting the Sunday and holiday time, and can well afford it after these returns which they never would have obtained without their union.

There is much work to be done this winter by the officers in particular, to make a bigger and better, organization. The Executive Board meets weekly and they have suggested the first of January the initiation fee be reduced to one dollar to enable those who have been in the employ of the company a short time and cannot really afford to pay our initiation fee to come in. The Executive Board has also suggested having a certain amount of each members dues set aside as a special fund in the bank to be known as a defense fund. In case we ever have any more trouble like we went through last spring we shall not be obliged to draw from our General Fund. The Executive Board is also drafting new by-laws as our present ones are inadequate for this local.

An Educational Committee has been appointed to take charge of the lectures and entertainments planned for the winter. Something to keep the interest of our members in the union.

We are not in favor of young girls under the age of 21 working until 10 p. m. We are not in favor of any of our girls being employed by the telephone company under the age of 18 years. We firmly believe that girls under the age of 18 years are not physically fit to perform their duties in justice to themselves or the company who employs them, and it has always been our aim to have our girls give their best efforts to the company while on duty, thereby not only commanding the respect of the company but the public who are their customers.

November 20, the annual ball is to be held in Paul Revere and Talbot Halls in this city. The proceeds is to go toward the sick fund. Invitations have been issued to the governor, mayor, and many other prominent statesmen as well as leading labor men. It is the intention of the committee to make this the largest and most enjoyable affair ever held in this city. Our members will all be obliged to take a ticket whether they attend or not. The committee on decorations informs me Local No. 103 have generously volunteered their services as usual in the line of electrical decorations. Undoubtedly they will be called upon as they were last year for their services. A good time is promised to all those who are present, and at this time we extend a cordial invitation to all the delegates who were present at the convention to be our guests. There were so many of them it would be almost impossible to send individual invitations except to the officers.

Our working conditions have changed a little since the convention. Operators working on the 5 to 11 p. m. shift now enjoy a 30 minute relief period instead of 15 minutes, and are also compensated $1 more per week. This is the shift the Adjustment Board had difficulty in reestablishing, as the company thought it was not necessary to have this trick. Now they are looking for operators to work these hours. We have not succeeded in reestablishing the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift. The girls are compensated $2 more but have to work from 10 p. m. to 7 a. m.; and are dissatisfied. However, we hope it will not be but a short time when their old hours are restored to them with the $2 still retained.

Our president has the honor of being a member of the Woman's City Club which is composed of financiers' wives and politicians' wives. However, our president did not force herself upon them they came after her and she is now a charter member. Mrs. James J. Storrow whose husband is the president of the Chamber of Commerce, member of the State Board of Arbitration, and one of the biggest financiers of this State is the president of the club. Mrs. Storrow was one of the patronesses with Mrs. Larz Anderson at our ball last year. We all feel that our president will endeavor to interest these people more in the wage earner and thus help establish better conditions.

Invitations have been received from the telephone locals at Lynn and Worcester to attend their ball. Some of our members have arranged to attend both.

There is one thing of interest I forgot to mention and that is the promotion of a great many of our members to senior operators, service observers, clerks and supervisors. In this union assistant chief operators and chief operators are not eligible to be members. When we were first organized we had one supervisor who joined and was promoted to assistant chief operator and is now the chief operator of the largest suburban exchange we have. We made a rule that we would not ask them to resign unless they cared to in case of promotion but they would not be entitled to a voice or vote, only entitled to benefits. This was thought out to be the best way as it would only jeopardize and one, in their position and they were obliged to be nearer to the officials of the company than the operator.

In closing we desire to thank all of the delegates who attended the convention for the kind consideration they showed our delegates who were not used to the ways of conventions and so new in the labor movement. They spoke in the highest terms of all the delegates. We shall always at any time be pleased to have any member of the Brotherhood when in this city attend our meetings. Some of the delegates attended our meeting when in town and we had the pleasure of listening to some interesting remarks from a few of them.

International President McNulty talked to us and gave us some very good advice. Baldy of St. Louis gave an interesting account of the St. Louis operators, and our old friend International Vice President Noonan was kind enough to say a few words, in his cheerful way. The members were sorry not to see International Secretary, Brother Ford, whom they heard so much about and the good work he has been doing. International Vice President Grasser was not present owing to other business which demanded his attention. We had some words of encouragement from the Brothers from New York and we also had our organizer with us Peter Lenihan. Brother Raven, former executive board member and a member of Local No. 134 of Chicago, spoke on the work we had accomplished and how to keep our organization going. The dear Sisters were somewhat dissatisfied when they found that Brothers Scanlon, Hampton, and Boyle of Chicago disappeared in some mysterious way after we expected we would surely hear from them if only a few words. Surely the dear Brothers did not expect the Sisters would request them to talk on Equal Suffrage. We shall forgive them as we know they meant to do all right when they entered the hall, but on seeing strange faces in some unknown way they became embarrassed, but we hope they will not be so embarrassed at the sight of the opposite sex they they will not organize the Chicago operators, so there will be a much larger delegation of the telephone operators at the next convention. To use a girl's expression, they thought Brother Sweek from Panama too dear for anything and as usual he rendered one of those very humorous talks of his.

The Local Union congratulates all the officers on their election and wishes them as well as all members of the Brotherhood every continued success, the following term.

Fraternally yours,
Alice J. Donavan,
Press Agent.

A HINT.

Do not forfeit the pleasures of life
By seeking its troubles alone.
Do not call it "a battle, a strife,"
In a mournful and sorrowful tone.

There is joy in a life that's brave,
There's happiness easy to all.
There is fun on this side of the grave,
As much, man, for you as for me.

I am not the good fellow who sings,
And claps his poor friend on the back,
Whenever his troubles he brings,
Enough for a big bushel sack.

But I know that I'm not in the wrong,
Because I do not sit and weep,
When a chum sings a doleful, sad song,
With his grief all piled up in a heap.

For if ever my old head feels light,
And teeming right over with glee,
Then to live is no murderous fight,
The world whispers sweetly to me.

Then because you are wearied, old friend,
And eagerly wishing Death's sleep,
Do you think all my songs I shall end,
To sit with you sadly and weep?

It is not in the nature of man
To weep when his lone brother sighs.
He will end all the songs he began,
No matter who lives or who dies.

Therefore, keep all your woes to yourself.
True sympathy cannot be found
Until you are under the heap,
Tucked safely away in the ground.

—Maisie Birmingham.

FRIENDSHIP.

I consider friendship an asset, security,
in its broadest sense,
Life's shadow wouldn't spell regret, were it not oft' sacrificed for recompense.
Perhaps some in reading this, will reflectively think and cast a sigh, Saying, no money has he ever kist', and said in abject sympathy, good bye,
But in reading these lines, don't think of me in that light,

For 'tis very true, that some-o-mine
too,
Has left no trace or signs, it has gone
plumb out-o-sight,
Now don't it usually happen, that those that have been treated thus,
At once start a-rappin', fret and fume,
and raise a fuss,
I don't claim that I'm immune, from acting that-a-way,

But I try to vary the tune, and might be inclined to say,
'Tis true, some folks are rather poor pay.

'Tis the same old story of being good,
being bad in easier, they won't,
Some would pay if they could, some can,
but don't,
Some memories we'd like to subject to erasure, there are those we despise,
But life is founded on nature, on human nature all relies,

For it takes all sorts of folks, to boost the old earth around,
Many of us are jokes, many with principles unsound,

Tho' I've lost a little kale, it will itself
amend,
For he who puts his friendship on sale,
is the real loser in the end.

M. I. Wright.

L. U. NO. 1, ST. LOUIS, MO.

The convention of the I. B. E. W. of 1913 is now history, and a pleasant memory to those who were fortunate enough to take part in the deliberations. Not being much of a prophet, nevertheless I contemplate good results. Nothing was passed lightly over that looked at all good. The work was arduous, and to my judgment, well handled. Every delegate seemed to wave personal interests and look only for the welfare of our Brotherhood. There were differences of opinion and methods, but all tended to the one end, the uplift of our Order. Men of all creeds, all political parties, and all branches of the electrical trade, looked only on methods to advance our best interests. Those that were not there have no idea of the harmony that existed. Some judge that the length of time taken was caused by discord, but they were never so far wrong. The questions that caused delay were comparatively new. The evolution of trade has made many changes necessary, and how to legislate to the best for all concerned was the great question. The female electrical workers was taken in hand early, but was so complicated a question that it took much time in discussing and devising means to render them the proper recognition. I sincerely hope matters as they were disposed of will have the desired effect; for if there is any portion of human family that needs protection and assistance it is the wage-earning women. I am happy at the outcome, and am very proud of the manly conduct of the delegates to the convention of the I. B. E. W., as that meeting will be long remembered by those interested. The convention was not the only thing that was grand. The St. Louis delegation did not go in a body, but your humble servant was in the lead a little bit. On September 6, 1913, I landed in the City of Chicago, and expected to meet one or two very dear friends, whom I desired to act as guide to keep me from "getting lost." To my surprise, there were a great number waiting, in fact, L. U. No. 134 took entire control, and we are not sure yet whether they let us light or not. The entertainment from the moment we stepped off the train until the tap of the gavel at Boston was fast and furious. It seemed as though the order was to give them all they could hold, and the old man made them double-team on him, and even then was ready for business when the convention was called to order. Being fourth on the roll call, must in consequence be there early, and I was there. Those that landed in Beantown on Sunday forgot what day it was, for L. U. No. 103 had a committee on the spot, and said committee did their duty, or what was assigned to them. It would be an injustice to mention any names, as they were at your elbow every leisure moment, and when they were not entertaining the delegates they simply took possession of the wives whom some of the delegates thoughtfully brought with them. The mascot of L. U. No. 1, Brother James McGinn's baby, Rosemary, will be pleasantly remembered by all who attended the convention. The delegation of No. 1 were fearful that some one would steal her, and I believe if we had not have been so watchful, there would have been a different tale to unfold. The changes in the constitution will be submitted to the rank and file, and I earnestly hope they will be ratified, for the work was honestly handled, and every detail measured, in a number of cases, amendments were offered, and some accepted. The Law Committee deserve special mention, for they worked harder than any other committee, and were desirous of other opinions than their own. Many of the Brothers were called into their meetings, for the purpose of forming laws to fit all conditions, and they came very nearly doing it.

The entertainments furnished by Boston were elaborate, every person and every task was considered. All that was necessary was to express a wish, and it was carried out with alacrity. The reception was all any old crank like Baldy could possibly expect. In bidding adieu to Boston did not end the entertainment. Some with tastes barbaric, had the pleasure of seeing many seasick members of the party who traveled from Boston to New York on the steamer Bunker Hill. Arrived at New York, Local Union No. 534 took us in hand and put us in the Hotel McAlpine, twenty-four stories high, and placed Yours Truly on the seventeenth floor; some others as high as the twenty-second floor. We, of bungalow cities, felt a little queamish at first, but got over it later, when we were wafted to the fifty-fourth floor of the Walworth building. The officers and members of No. 534 have the true feeling of union men. The visit to the great Hippodrome was the surprise of the trip. I will not try to give you an idea of it, but will say if you ever get to New York, and can by any way get to the performance at the Hippodrome, it will repay you. A number of returning delegates attended meeting of No. 534. With them business is business, but respect, fraternity and brotherly love were manifested, when the R. S. read a communication reporting the death of a member. The two minutes standing in silent pose it was very feelingly impressed on Yours Truly, that all humanity has not been set aside for the sole purpose of acquiring the almighty dollar. The automobile trips were pleasing and educating. Every desire of the visiting delegates seemed to be the bonded duty of the committee of entertainment selected by L. U. No. 534. I wish to say "right now," the members of the big New York Local have a set of officers that will be hard to replace. From the President to them most humble member was manifested a desire to be of service to their brothers in the cause, and they did it to perfection. The feeling of true brotherhood engendered will remain with the visitors, and Local Union No. 534, I. B. E. W., meets with the hearty approval of all. It is only necessary to carry a good card in any affiliated Local to receive a grand reception in New York, and as long as you remain good, they will treat you right. Therefore, be good.

Owing to space in our journal, I will be forced to curtail. I could elongate on the trip to such an extent that it would require more space than the entire issue of The Worker is allotted. The trip to Washington, D. C., was one to be remembered. The visit at the seat of government was curtailed on account of previous engagements, but our entire time was taken up seeing what seemed almost impossibilities, and really baffles description. I am at a loss for words and will have to ask you to go and see for yourselves. There being only one matter to complain of, and that was the walk from the railroad station (for exercise), suggested by one of the members of Local Union No. 134, of the Windy City. It was exercise, but had we been training for a prize fight there would have been no more strenuous practice demanded.

Then to Cincinnati, Ohio, to meet L. U. No. 212, and under their guidance carry out the final of a movement started by L. U. No. 134, of Chicago, Ill., namely, the unveiling of a monument erected at the grave of Brother Joseph Alandar, who was shot down by an assassin while performing duties of his office in above mentioned L. U. The entire proceedings were fraught with a combination of feelings that tended to establish more strongly the brotherly feeling manifested. The effect on all of the party was apparent. The remarks of our International President were terse and to the point. Any one not appreciating them have no feelings that should be paramount in the heart of true union men.

Local Union No. 212 deserve all credit for the complete success of the last but not least assignment of the trip. At home again, among my old friends, and some enemies, I can but think of what has been accomplished toward good by a united effort. Looking back (as some may term it into ancient history) I see, and with pleasure, that our noble Brotherhood has accomplished much, but are not done as yet. The officers and members seem to vie with each other in accomplishing the purpose of our organization. I was at one time proud to be a member of the I. B. E. W., but now I am determined to remain a good and loyal member at any cost.

Sisters and Brothers, by harmony and good will much more will be accomplished. Make it a point to avoid strife in our ranks, but be ready to fight to finish the enemies of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

With love to the Sisters and Brothers, I am,

Yours to command,

Baldy.

L. U. NO. 43, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Editor Electrical Worker:

The conditions in our jurisdiction are very unsettled at present on account of difficulties with the Master Builders' Association, and as there has been no definite settlement, the outlook for the coming winter is very gloomy indeed, with building operations quiet as well.

During the past year, which was a busy one, we increased our membership materially by initiation and receiving travelers. However, we have been very unfortunate on account of building trade strikes, causing a number of our members to walk and many of them are still out.

We wish to congratulate our International Officers on their re-election and the very successful convention at Boston. We also take great pleasure in inviting our officers to visit us at an early date, that we may be able to show them that old No. 43 is still in the game.

Unveiling of Jos. Alandar Monument at Cincinnati, Ohio, October 6th, 1913.

Dedication of Alandar Monument. International President and committee who attended same.

F. J. McNulty, C. L. Hampton, R. McGregor, M. J. Boyle and P. H. Sullivan.

Our Boston delegate returned with an excellent report of the good work done at the convention, stating that he had had a very pleasant, but also a very busy trip, inasmuch as there was something doing in the convention every minute. We further wish to see the next convention on the coast with old Number Six.

We regret to state that through the resignation of Brother Geo. A. Enezy as president a good, hard and earnest worker for the cause, we forced to make a change at this time; we were, however, fortunate to elect Bro. Frank J. Flood in his place, one of our younger members, but a good, live one, nevertheless, and that's what we need.

Yours fraternally,

Fred Blackmoor, Press Sec.

L. U. NO. 66, HOUSTON, TEX.

Editor Electrical Worker:

Dear Sir and Brother: I will chop you a few lines for publication in the next issue of The Worker. While so doing I want to say that I am certainly proud to state here of the success of the late convention, just held in Boston, Mass., and am more than proud of the conditions of the finances, that is to say, every delegate got every cent that was due him., and a nice little balance left over from the convention fund to turn back in the general fund, and that is more than the Reid-Murphy social bunch can say, as their delegate from Houston had to wire back home for money to enable him to get home. I understand from one of their members that they threw the bones or (dice) a bit too hard in Dallas last week, and as the doors were securely locked, the plain clothes policeman had to use a little extra strength to get in, and cost the good union man a new set of doors. so I won't waste any more time writing about them. So getting back to the convention again, I want to, in behalf of Local No. 66, sincerely thank the committee and also the members as a whole of Local No. 103, of Boston, Mass., for the way they so nobly entertained the delegates while they were in Boston, and I will assure them they will never be forgotten by the members of Local No. 66, especially your humble servant, as I happened to be the delegate. So good luck, Brothers, to you of No. 103.

At present writing things are pretty quiet around Houston, but all members working. Prospects good for more applications soon. So wishing our General Officers the best success, and also the membership as a whole, I remain,

C. A. Boatman,
P. and P. S., Local No. 66.

L. U. NO. 177, JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

The Electrical Workers held a short balled-up ball game, in which the Inside men got on the outside of the Outside men. Number of innings played, 1-2. Umpire, Barnes. Batteries, Red Seal, Open Circuit, Crow Foot, Storage.

Game opened with Kelley in the panel-box, twirling for the Insiders, while Jones donned the spark arrester and caught off the bat. Snider, one of those heavy, die and stocky fellows, was the first up, and he swung the hickory in an able manner, but Kelley got a dog-leg over the inside corner of the switch plate with so much off-set that it took Snider in the bread receptacle and short-circuited him to first.

Ball was the next fixture up, but the umpire ruled him out of the premises on the grounds that you can't beat a man at his own (Ball) game. Boyle was substituted for Ball, and swinging the carbon in a graceful arc at about 550 volts, he failed to get a contact, but caused a spark gap of about six inches. The umpire called a strike, but it was settled by a commutation.

Jones failed to get a lock-nut on the ball, and Snider loomed up at the two-gang plate. Kelly wound up and let drive with a straight outlet, but Boyle managed to make connection and produced a beautiful high light, which caused considerable agitation in the field, as the ball fell into an open circuit and excited the armature ball players. Snider only reached the three-light cluster, but Boyle speeded up his generator, brushed first and made a ground slider at the secondary sack, and the umpire passed it.

Pledger was the next man up, and he proceeded to bore holes in the atmosphere with his usual dexterity. The electrolier switch indicated one, two, three, off, and Pledger was retired to the workbench. Lovell faced the pitcher with a 30-watt smile, and caught a jumper close up to the knob, and the ball grounded about three amperes in front of the plate. Jones made a high-tension leap to clear the ground, but stepped down his voltage through his transformer while Lovell rung up point one on the annunciator.

With the bases full and only one out, Lang was swooting trouble from the coacher's box as fast as he could voice it, with Butler butting in, when McCormick came to bat.

Kelly looked about and saw he was in a bad box and commenced to feel around for a knock-out hole to crawl out of. He tossed up a little one-light drop of small candle-power—and Mac fanned the flame. Drop number two fell plunk into Jones' mit, and the umpire called strike two, while Mac settled back on his heels with a determination to bust the next one wide open.

It came—a 60,000-volt charge—and Mac swung with all the force in his vacuum circuit and missed, but the terrific air current fanned the flame to such an incandescent brilliancy that it impaired the receiver's eyeight, and Jones muffed the ball. Mac beat it to first while the rough-neckes roared "Home, Snider, home!" But Snider held his ground and, holding his hand aloft for silence, said: "Please don't take me home; I'm a poor married man."

The umpire glanced round the field, counted four, and declared the circuit overloaded. The voltae climbed; the circuit-breakers flew out and the fuses popped and left the field in total darkness. By the light of his everlasting cigar, Umpire Barnes called the game on account of darkness at watt hour. Score is 20.

Editor Electrical Worker:

Greeting: Local No. 183 is growing rapidly for so young an infant, having been born February 19. So fast, in fact, that we are beginning to talk and express a few of our individual opinions to one another, and to our bosses.

We haven't cut any teeth so far; at least we haven't bitten anyone or attempted to. But if the "bosses" don't show a little more courtesy to our agreement committee, one of these days we will "show up" with a full set, even if we have to earn a set of false ones from an old cutout or something.

We some times have a few personalities brought up in the hall, and several chunks of mud have been thrown, both in and out of the hall. But we are no worse than other children, I suppose, all of them play in the "mud" occasionally. So "let the little fellow enjoy himself while he is young." We will outgrow it, as we become older. A few of our Brothers may be surprised to learn that we are presenting an agreement to our employers. It may seem ridiculous that we workmen of the Blue Grass should be asking for more wages or better conditions, located, as we are, in the very midst of so favored a spot, a spot upon which the Lord has been so generous in showering the many bounteous gifts evident upon every hand. The more famous of these being, good whisky, beautiful women and fast horses. But, it takes the "wherewith" to obtain the "booze." Horses! Say, since the last race meet here, a horse shoe looks like the figure "13" to some of our Brothers. Oh, yes, the women. If you want to know about them, just get yourself in training for a Marathan, and ask,

Fraternally yours,
A. W. Wilson, Press Sec.

L. U. NO. 257, LAKE CHARLES, LA.

Editor Electrical Worker:

Just a few lines again from Local No. 257, as a contribution to The Worker, and to let the Brotherhood at large know that we are at the switch. I dare say we have as good a small Local here as can be found anywhere in the United States, for we are all live members; we carry no dead ones. We have just increased the scale from 40 cents to 50 cents per hour, and a signed contract, which gives us excellent working conditions.

Considering the fact that we have just been organized since September 16, 1912, and prior to that time we were working for $2.50 per day, and are now getting $4.00, gives us a just cause for tooting our little horn and feeling as proud as peacocks; we all realize that we have organization to thank for it all.

But do not think that we have had a path of roses, for we have had our troubles and are just getting straightened out and on our feet.

I am sending under separate cover a picture of the members of No. 257 in Labor Day attire, and hope to see it in print with this letter, providing it meets the Brother Editor's approval. We turned out in full strength, and spent an enjoyable day at the grounds, where an appropriate program was rendered. We were financially unable to send a delegate to the convention, but we sure hope to be represented at the next one.

It gives me great pleasure when I get a Worker. The first page I look for is the Editorial page, because it gives the news and comments of the Brotherhood; next I look for the correspondence, and see if Brother K. J. Whaley has contributed. I enjoy his letters very much, as they are an uplift for the Brotherhood, on the broad and intellectual subjects they are written about. I congratulate Brother Whaley, and hope he keeps the good work up. There are other good writers in the Brotherhood, who, if they would contribute to The Worker oftener, would do a world of good; so let all press secretaries get busy and let us have your views, and let us convince those who are on the wrong side of the fence by strong argument, instead of mudslinging contests, to get with the only right I. B. E. W.

As I do not know of any more to write, I will close, wishing success to all.

Fraternally,
J. C. Brammer, Secy.

DETROIT L. U. NO. 271.

Editor Electrical Worker.

Dear Sir: Local No. 271 has not been heard from in The Worker for some time, so I will try and let the Brotherhood know what we are doing here.

I read the report which Meyers made to the Denver gathering, and I see he claimed that 95 per cent of the Organized Wiremen in Detroit were members of the Reid Local.

If this is the case, we must have only five members, as they only claim a hundred members in their Worker.

Of course we know this is not the only case where untrue facts have been published in their Worker, so don't worry much.

Here I want to state that Local No. 271 has 354 members in good standing, so you can see that other things in Meyers' report in regards to this District may be made up the same as this one.

If you can get one of their Workers, you will also see that they claim Local No. 17 of Detroit, and that Geo. Elder is Financial Secretary, but you will also find out that he represented Local No. 18 in the Denver Convention.

Local No. 17, of Detroit, is a Lineman's Local of 375 members, one of the best Locals near here, and they are under the right banner.

The Building Trades of Detroit are all growing, so No. 271 is getting along fine, and our members are all satisfied that conditions here will be better from now on.

Local No. 271 has had so much work all summer that we were obliged, in several cases, to let some of the contractors hire other men, as we were unable to get them fast enough to supply the demand.

The M. C. Terminal station here has used from 50 to 80 men for a year and a half, and we have placed a good many Brothers to work who came in on travelers.

I can say that Local No. 271 can thank the A. F. of L. for a great deal of our success, and we cannot see why a man can carry a card which is not recognized by that body.

We all believe that there will be one Organization soon, and are looking forward to that time.

Conditions for the Electrical Worker here have been bad for years back, on account of the lack of organization, and it was necessary to start at the bottom and build up, which we have been doing.

By going on as we have, we expect to have working conditions which we can be proud of, as Detroit should be one of the best cities in the country.

Any paid-up ticket is welcome here, and we are glad to meet our traveling Brothers when the work is good.

With best wishes to the Brotherhood, I am,

Yours fraternally,

Wm. Slattery, Press Sec.

L. U. NO. 419, NEW YORK CITY.

Editor Electrical Worker:

It is with great pleasure that I am able to announce to the I. O., and through The Worker to the Brotherhood at large, that L. U. No. 419, of New York City has come out of its comatose condition and has elected a Press Secretary, and has given him express orders to dispell the inexcusable, and undesirable, notion that they are likely to slep on forever; for in some mysterious manner it has been born in on them that they have lost and buried themselves in the Big City; and although they have always been a happy family among themselves, barring occasional wrangle and exhibitiiion of temper just like Brothers will show at times, they have at last, after rubbing their eyes and shaking themselves thoroughly awake, suddenly realized that they have relatives in other parts of the country who would like to get a letter occasionally and are greatly moved with contrition for their lack of family interest; the more so because of the pleasure they have derived from reading the letter from other members of the family and have not themselves written a letter home in a long, long time, and they now desire to make amends by writing at least once a month in the future.

I intended to tell you in this letter about a social affair we enjoyed recently with our Brothers of No. 164, but there is considerable data connected with it that is important to tell the story interestingly which I have not been able to get in time for the next Worker, so will have to let it go till next time, and will have to close with this expression of our intentions for the future, as I want to have this announcement in time for the September Worker.

With best regards and love to all, I remain,

J. W. Smita,

L. U. No. 419's Press Secy.

L. U. NO. 490, DALLAS, TEXAS.

Editor Electrical Worker:

I notice in the daily papers that the Reid-Murphy convention of the bunch of men who call themselves Electrical Workers, have about decided to give up the nonsensical fight that the leaders have burdened the men with and make an Electrical Society, or Club, of the organization. I can't see any other motive in their idea of passing a resolution admitting clerks, stenographers and practically all employes working for a company that handle wires and electricity. What object could they have, only as the old adage, "A drowning man will catch at a straw"?

I also notice a three-inch item in the Dallas Daily Dispatch stating that for the fourth time the Reid-Murphy hall has been raided on account of the gambling that is carried on there. This time four of the members of old No. 69, one of them considered one of the most prominent leaders, had to help out the city to the extent of $10.00 each.

Such actions, both the passing of the resolution above mentioned and the lawlessness also above mentioned, will soon drag the whole organization down to extinction. It is too bad that a bunch of fellows, good union men, are forced to stay with leaders who are in the fight for the graft there is in it. There can be no other solution to the matter, for the leaders of the Reid bunch have had so many chances to honorably get over on the recognized side, and by doing so, place the rank and file back into the movement where they belong. The membership is tired of contributing a portion of their wages to support unworthy leaders and an unworthy cause. May God speed the time when we will all be together again, as we should be, and be recognized by all other trades unions as union men.

I take this opportunity to thank our unworthy former brother, Frank Sullivan, for the amusement he has caused me by his editorial on page 405 of his July publication.

Frank, I suppose, has adopted the motto on the front cover of Puck, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men." That is, if I may judge by the editorial above mentioned. He says that an answer to me would be nonsensical, etc. Still he proceeded to "waste" nearly two columns in a feeble effort to say something.

Usually, when I make a move, I dispose of all unnecessary letters, papers, etc., in order to lighten my packing, so the letter that I referred to wherein Frank caused me to believe him not altogether in sympathy with those whom he associates in business with, was "cast to the winds." However, I have a letter from Frank under date of April 9, 1912, addressed to me here. The second paragraph of this letter reads as follows: "With reference to your statement: 'You would do all in your power to have the matter (international troubles) settled, regardless of who is hurt.' I fully agree with you, and will say that the matter rests with the membership entirely, and I am fighting their battles. Whenever they tire, I am willing to submit to whatever conditions may be deemed advisable."

I also have a letter under date of May 6, 1913, wherein Frank states: "I think that our members will not grow tired with the fight, but if they do grow tired with the officers, there is one who will readily detect it and take his chances in another line."

Now, then, in this delightful editorial of Frank's, he says that nothing will cause him to leave the outlaw side of the Workers. The words in his letters and the words in his editorial do not produce the same echo. Of course Frank had his usual amount of B. S. in those letters in the "McNulty gush," etc., but you know that was necessary to hold his job.

Frank quoted a few words from my report of the Thirty-first Convention, A. F. of L., but he failed to say anything about the part directly referring to the Electrical Workers. You will find that beginning on the seventeenth page of my report, Frank

On the second page of that part of my report, I stated that I had asked permission to go before the committee acting on the resolution asking for affiliation for the Reid faction, when I appeared before the committee I found Reid and his staff there, and the committee acted on the adjustment of the factional trouble before they did on the resolution, and Reid's attitude was such that when the committee acted on the resolution I did not have the heart, or nerve, to say anything in behalf of that side.

I further stated, "I am with the Reid faction, but President Reid did not act in a way that would gain him any friends. Delegates who had promised me their support, both in voting and on the floor, came to me and asked me to please not be offended if they did not take the floor. All the delegates who talked with me regarding the question on this date (some of them very prominent), expressed their disapproval of Brother Reid's actions and claimed that it was the duty of Reid to submit to the findings of the joint committee at Rochester, and the recommendations of the Executive Council. As I said above, I am a Reid faction man, and I assure you that I dislike to make such a report pertaining to the faction I belong to, and believe in, but it is my intention to give you a bona fide report, and I can not change the facts in this case, and my report would be incomplete were I to lightly pass over the matter."

The Thirty-first Annual Convention of the A. F. of L. was the starting point of me being convinced that I was on the wrong side, and I dare say that any fair-minded Worker would have seen the issue the same as I did. I know that Brother Bivens and Brother Pulliam both expressed their opinion of the matter, and it was along the same lines as my own. Of course, the Executive Board, who accompanied Reid, could not afford to express such opinions.

Your editorial, Frank, suggests that I was handed some "slush" money to become a recognized union man. Now, don't corrupt your puerile mind with such ideas. I was neither bought or personally persuaded. After a careful study of conditions and circumstances, I plainly saw no alternative except to remain an outcast of the labor movement, or get on the side that was recognized by all other trades.

You also intimate that I am an imbecile. That does not wrong me in the least, Frank, for such reference to any one's personality, whether true or not, is proof positive of simple-mindedness on the part of those who make such reference.

I have always liked you, Frank, and if you will go to some specialist and have your mind treated before it is entirely too late, I will always be your friend.

It is up to all of us to be either men or monkeys. Let's don't be monkeys.

Fraternally,

A. W. Wright.

L. U. NO. 504, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

I suppose you have all seen our name in The Worker as another L. U. on the right side. Every little helps. We elected a Press Secretary some time ago, and I never seen a piece in The Worker, and the last I heard of him, the firm whom he worked for had a job in New Haven, Conn. He took a T. C. card, and went. So I thought, of nobody was going to let the boys know what we were doing, I would scratch in a word myself.

The firms here in G. R. said they would never hire another union man, so we got the better workmen together and organized. We have two of the largest shops, except a few workmen who don't belong, and the contractors seem to think it's a good thing to have some union and non-union men in the shop, but when we get a job where we can make it a card job, we hold it to the card. We have just finished a job at the State Fair grounds. We held it to the card. We had all kinds of workmen come on the job, and found out they would have to join our L. U. or quit work. We had several Reid men come on the job; they either had to switch over or get off the job. Several took out permits. One of the contractors sent out one of his men who was working on a permit for a week, when the week was up and he didn't join the L. U. as he agreed to, he was requested to leave the job. So he then went to work for another contractor, who wasn't going to have a union man in his place, but when he took this man to the Fair Grounds to work and found it to be a card job, he just begged of the boys to let his man work, and paid his initiation to the boys and said he would invite the boys to his shop to talk unionism to his men. He feels as though the other contractors put one over on him, as the other contractors who had union men were getting the work, and he saw where he was losing out.

We are putting up a fight against the hand-basket contractors, who are holding conditions where they are.

O. S. Livergood.

L. U. NO. 716, HOUSTON, TEX.

Editor Electrical Worker:

We wish to congratulate our worthy officers and staunch Brothers upon the showing they made at the Boston Convention, and the despatch and judgment manifest in the handling of the momentous questions brought before them.

This Local, as we believe all the balance of the Brotherhood does, feels that the delegates sent to the convention have done just exactly the right and proper thing in the election of our International Officers for another term. They have surely been tried, and we have found them not wanting, and we feel that we are fortunate in retaining such an efficient set of officers.

To gloat over the vanquished is not a noble spirit, and it is not with any sentiment of this kind that we note the feeble attendance at the Denver Convention of the Outlaw Electrical Workers, but rather with a feeling of pity not unmixed with sorrow in our hearts, for the onetime Brothers whose lives are working daily along the same channels as ours and who through their inability to see where lie their best interests, are banded together trying to battle against the American Federation of Labor, which means all organized labor against one little outlaw crowd of laborers, and in the end the absolute annihilation of even the semblance of an organization such as they now have.

From time to time first one and then another point is made in the play against our misguided Brothers of the Outlaws, and the question might well be asked, why, if they are down and out at this very time, do we seek to secure another point against them; and we would answer, that just as it is sometimes necessary for a parent to chastise a disobedient child, even though it causes a heart ache to so do, it being for the child's good and welfare the parent goes on to the end, for the double purpose of correcting the child being punished and establishing in the hearts of the other children in the family a due and proper respect for the parental authority.

The increase in the number of monthly letters to our Worker during the past months, we look upon as an indication of healthy development and vigorous, sturdy growth, and are waiting in keen anticipation for the time when the number of pages of The Worker will have to be doubled to print the news from our great Brotherhood.

The amount of work is falling off, as it always does at this time of year, but our Local is in good shape and spirits, and wishes hereby to extend to our sister Locals and Sub Locals its regards, together with an invitation to discuss through these columns any subjects of interest to the craft or unionism in general.

Reports of Officers .. and Organizers ..

Mr. Chas. F. Ford.

Dear Sir and Brother:—Please publish the following letter in The Worker, giving it prominent space. This is to be done by all International Organizations.

With best wishes, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

G. M. Bugniazet,

I. V. P.

To the Officers and Members.

Greeting—This is to bring to your notice as well to the notice of your friends and acquaintances that the Hendee Company, the manufacturers of the Indian Motorcycle, are putting up numerous buildings for factory purposes in Springfield, Mass., and are employing nothing but non-union labor and refuse to change their policy in the construction of these buildings.

Now I believe it is up to organized labor and its friends who are the ones who purchase motorcycles to remember this firm's attitude when they hear one of their friends or themselves are going to buy a motorcycle to buy one manufactured by a concern that it at least not antagonistic to organized labor. Hoping all the members will keep this in mind and show practical results, I remain, with best wishes,

Fraternally yours,

G. M. Bugniazet, I. V. P.

To the Members of the I. B. E. W.

Greeting: The Twelfth Annual Convention of our Brotherhood, recently held in the City of Boston, was without any exception, the most successful, as well as the largest and most representative Convention in the history of our Brotherhood.

I had the honor of representing the same Local Union which I had the honor of representing at the Louisville Convention, which convention was the last one held prior to the Secession Movement, and I believe that I can safely say without fear of contradiction, that our recent Convention held in the City of Boston, excelled in every particular the Louisville Convention. The Boston Convention was the first Convention to have the honor of having in attendance representatives from our Sister Locals, and I believe that our Sister Locals should be highly complimented for the great interest they displayed for the good and welfare of our Brotherhood.

After a careful observation of the hard work that our Sisters have done for organization, I feel sure that our next Convention will see them represented by double the number of Delegates that were in attendance at our Boston Convention.

The deliberations of our Convention were careful and harmonious, every delegate putting forth the very best that was in him or her for the benefit of our Brotherhood, so that we may continue to grow rapidly, and soon become one of the largest as well as one of the strongest labor organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L.

It is indeed to be regretted that our Seceding friends were not in a position to be in Boston. If they had been, it would have only taken one glance for them to see which organization had the 80 per cent of the Electrical Workers of the country.

It was a pleasure indeed to see the rapidity with which our Brotherhood has grown since our Rochester Convention, and we are going to continue to grow and grow, until every Electrical Worker in the country shall come under our banner, and be in full affiliation with the A. F. of L.

Your officers gave a detailed report of their several stewardships, and after going into detail as to their action since the Rochester Convention, their actions were most heartily approved by your representatives. Your representatives were the judges, and they concurred and approved of our actions for the past twenty-one months, for which your officers feel very appreciative, and as you have given us your approval and we have received the approval of the A. F. of L., we will continue to do in the future, as we have done in the past, give you the very best that is in us.

Again I desire to express to you, my Brothers, sincerest appreciation of myself and fellow officers elected in Boston, for the very great confidence that you have bestowed upon us, and I can assure you that when we meet again in Convention, that you will have no regrets for the selections you made in the City of Boston.

In conclusion, I desire to most heartily congratulate our Local Unions of the City of Boston for the magnificent manner in which they entertained and welcomed the delegates in attendance to our Convention, and can assure our Locals of Boston that they will ever live in the minds of our delegates as one of their most pleasant memories.

With best wishes for the future success of our Brotherhood, I remain

Respectfully and Fraternaly,

L. C. Grasser, I. V. P.

Elementary Lessons in Electricity and Magnetism

LESSON XVIII.—Chemical Actions of the Current:—Vollameters.

205. In addition to the chemical actions inside the cells of the battery, which always accompany the production of a current, there are also chemical actions produced outside the battery when the current is caused to pass through certain liquids. Liquids may be divided into three classes—(1) those which do not conduct at all, such as turpentine and many oils, particularly petroleum; (2) those which conduct without decomposition, viz. mercury and other molten metals, which conduct just as solid metals do; (3) those which are decomposed when they conduct a current, viz. the dilute acids, solutions of metallic salts, and certain fused solid compounds.

206. Decomposition of Water.—In the year 1800 Carlisle and Nicholson discovered that the voltaic current could be passed through water, and that in passing through it decomposed a portion of the liquid into its constituent gases. These gases appeared in bubbles on the ends of the wires which led the current into and out of the liquid; bubbles of oxygen gas appearing at the point where the current entered the liquid, and hydrogen bubbles where it left the liquid. It was soon found that a great many other liquids, particularly dilute acids and solutions of metallic salts, could be similarly decomposed by passing a current through them.

207. Electrolysis.—To this process of decomposing a liquid by means of an electric current Faraday gave the name of electrolysis (ie. electric analysis); and those substances which are capable of being thus decomposed or "electrolysed" he termed electrolytes.

The ends of the wires leading from and to the battery are called electrodes; and to distinguish them, that by which the current enters is called the anode, that by which it leaves the kathode. The vessel in which a liquid is placed for electrolysis is termed an electrolytic cell.

208. Electrolysis of Water.—Returning to the decomposition of water, we may remark that perfectly pure water appears not to conduct, but its resistance is greatly reduced by the addition of a few drops of sulphuric or of hydrochloric acid. The apparatus shown in Fig. 92 is suitable for this purpose. Here a battery of two cells (those shown are circular Bunsen's batteries) is seen with its poles connected to two strips of metallic platinum as electrodes, which project up into a vessel containing the acidulated water. Two tubes closed at one end, which have been previously filled with water and inverted, receive the gases evolved at the electrodes. Platinum is preferred to other metals such as copper or iron for electrodes, since it is less oxidisable and resists every acid. It is found that there is almost exactly twice as much hydrogen gas (by volume) evolved at the kathode as there is of oxygen at the anode. This fact corresponds with the known chemical composition of water, which is produced by combining together these two gases in the proportion of two volumes of the former to one of the latter. The proportions of gases evolved, however, are not exactly two to one, for at first a very small quantity of the hydrogen is absorbed or "occluded" by the platinum surface, while a more considerable proportion of the oxygen—about 1 per cent—is given off in the denser allotropic form of ozone, which occupies less space and is also slightly soluble in the water. When a sufficient amount of the gases has been evolved and collected they may be tested; the hydrogen by showing that it will burn the oxygen by its causing a glowing spark on the end of a splinter of wood to burst into flame. If the two gases are collected together in a common receiver, the mixed gas will be found to possess the well known explosive property of mixed hydrogen and oxygen gases. The chemical decomposition is expressed in the following equation:

209. Electrolysis of Sulphate of Copper.—We will take as another case of electrolysis of a solution of the well-known "blue vitriol" or sulphate of copper. If a few crystals of this substance are dissolved in water a blue liquid is obtained which is easily electrolysed between two electrodes of platinum foil, by the current from a single cell of any ordinary battery. The chemical formula for sulphate of copper is CuSO_4 . The result of the electrolysis is to split it up into metallic copper, which is deposited in a film upon the kathode, and "Sulphion" an easily decomposed compound of sulphur and oxygen, which is immediately acted upon by the water forming sulphuric acid and oxygen. This oxygen is liberated in bubbles at the anode. The chemical changes are thus expressed:

In this way, as the current continues to flow, copper is continually withdrawn from the liquid and deposited on the kathode, and the liquid gets more and more acid. If copper electrodes are used instead of platinum, no oxygen is given but the copper anode itself dissolves away for the same quantity of electricity flows past every point of the circuit in the same time. If all these cells contain acidulated water, the quantity, for example, of hydrogen set free in each will be the same; or, if they contain a solution of sulphate of copper, identical quantities of copper will be deposited in each. If some of the cells contain acidulated water, and others contain sulphate of copper, the weights of hydrogen and of copper will not be equal, but will be in chemically equivalent quantities.

chemical action will be the same in all,
 (ii.) The amount of an ion liberated at an electrode in a given time is proportional to the strength of the current. A current of 2 amperes will cause just twice the quantity of chemical decompo-off at the anode but the copper anode itself dissolves away into the liquid at exactly the same rate as the copper of the liquid is deposited on the kathode.

210. Anions and Kathions.—The atoms which thus are severed from one another and carried invisibly by the current to the electrodes, and there deposited, are obviously of two classes: one set go to the anode, the other to the kathode. Faraday gave the name of ions to these wandering atoms; those going to the anode being anions, and those going to the Kathode being kathions. Anions are sometimes regarded as “electro-negative” because they move as if attracted toward the + pole of the battery, while the kathions are regarded as “electro-positive.” Hydrogen and the metals are kathions, moving apparently with the direction assumed as that of the current, and are deposited where the current leaves the electrolytic cell. The anions are oxygen, chlorine, etc. When, for example, chloride of tin is electrolysed, metallic tin is deposited on the kathode, and chlorine gas is evolved at the anode.

211. Quantitative Laws of Electrolysis.

(i.) The amount of chemical action is equal at all points of a circuit. If two or more electrolytic cells are placed at different points of a circuit the amount of sition to take place as a current of 1 ampere would do in the same time.

(iii.) The amount of an ion liberated at an electrode in one second is equal to the strength of the current multiplied by the “electro-chemical equivalent” of the ion. It has been found by experiment that the passage of one coulomb of electricity through water liberates .000010352 gramme¹ of hydrogen. Hence, a current the strength of which is C (amperes) will liberate $C \times .000010352$ grammes of hydrogen per second. The quantity .000010352 is called the electro-chemical equivalent of hydrogen. The “electro-chemical equivalents” of other elements can be easily calculated if their chemical “equivalent” is known. Thus the chemical “equivalent”¹ of copper is 31.5; multiplying this by .000010352 we get as the electro-chemical equivalent of copper of value .0003261 (gramme).

¹ The chemical “equivalent” must not be confounded with the “atomic weight.” The atomic weight of copper is 63, that is to say, its atoms are 36 times as heavy as atoms of hydrogen. But in chemical combinations one atom of copper replaces or is “worth,” two atoms of hydrogen; hence the weight of copper equivalent to 1 of hydrogen is $63/2 = 31\frac{1}{2}$. In all cases the chemical “equivalent” is the quotient atomic weight. The valency $\frac{\text{atomic weight}}{\text{valency}}$

213. The following equation embodies the rule for finding the weight of any given ion disengaged from an electrolytic solution during a known time by a current whose strength is known. Let C be the strength of the current (reckoned in amperes), t the time (in seconds), z the electro-chemical equivalent, and w the weight (in grammes) of the element liberated; then or, in words, the weight (in grammes) of an element deposited by electrolysis is found by multiplying its electro-chemical equivalent by the strength of the current (reckoned in amperes), and by the time (in seconds), during which the current continues to flow.

EXAMPLE.—A current from five Daniell's cells was passed through two electrolytic cells, one containing a solution of silver, the other acidulated water, for ten minutes. A tangent galvanometer in the circuit showed the strength of the current to be .5 amperes. The weight of silver deposited will be $.0011180 \times .5 \times 10 \times 60 = .3354$ gramme. The weight of hydrogen evolved in the second cell will be $.000010352 \times .5 \times 10 \times 60 = .0031056$ gramme.

214. Voltameters.—The second of the above laws, that the amount of an ion liberated in a given time is proportional to the strength of the current, is sometimes known as Faraday's Law, from its discoverer. Faraday pointed out that it affords a chemical means of measuring the strength of currents. He gave the name of voltmeter to an electrolytic cell arranged for the purpose of measuring the strength of the current by the amount of chemical action it effects.

215. Water-Voltmeter.—The apparatus shown in Fig. 92 might be appropriately termed a Water-Voltmeter, provided the tubes to collect the gases be graduated, so as to measure the quantities evolved. The weight of each measured cubic centimetre of hydrogen (at the standard temperature of 0° C, and pressure of 760 millims.) is known to be .0000896 grammes. Hence, if the number of cubic centimetres liberated during a given time by a current of unknown strength be ascertained, the strength of the current can be calculated by first reducing the volume to weight, and then dividing by the electro-chemical equivalent, and by the time. Each coulomb of electricity liberates in its flow .1157 cubic centimetres of hydrogen, and .0579 c. c. of oxygen. If these gases are collected together in a mixed-gas voltmeter there will be .1736 c. c. of the mixed gases evolved for every coulomb of electricity which passes. To decompose 9 grammes of water, liberating 1 gramme of H and 8 grammes of O, requires 96,600 coulombs.

216. Copper and Silver Voltmeters.—As mentioned above, if sulphate of copper is electrolysed between two electrodes of copper, the anode is slowly dissolved, and the cathode receives an equal quantity of copper as a deposit on its surface. One coulomb of electricity will cause .0003261 gramme to be deposited; and to deposit one gramme weight requires a total quantity of 3066 coulombs to flow through the electrodes. A current of one ampere deposits in one hour 1.174 grammes of copper, or 4.025 grammes of silver.

By weighing one of the electrodes before and after the passage of a current, the gain (or loss) will be proportional to the quantity of electricity that has passed. In 1879 Edison, the inventor, proposed to apply this method for measuring the quantity of electricity supplied to houses for electric lights in them; a small copper Voltmeter being placed in a branch of the circuit which supplied the house, to serve as a meter. Various other kinds of Coulombmeters have been proposed, having clockwork counters, rolling integrating discs, and other mechanical devices to add up the total quantity of electricity conveyed by the current.

217. Comparison of Voltmeters with Galvanometers.—It will be seen that both Galvanometers and Voltmeters are intended to measure the strength of currents, one by magnetic, the other by chemical means. Faraday demonstrated that the magnetic and the chemical actions of a current are proportional to one another. The galvanometer shows, however, the strength of the current at any moment, and its variations in strength from one moment to another, by the position of the needle. In the voltameter a varying current may liberate the bubbles of gas or the atoms of copper rapidly at one moment, and slowly the next, but all the varying quantities will be simply added together in the total yield. In fact, the voltameter gives us the "time integral" of the current. It tells us what quantity of electricity has flowed through it during the experiment, rather than how strong the current was at any one moment.

218. Chemical Test for Weak Currents.—A very feeble current suffices to produce a perceptible amount of change in certain chemical substances. If a few crystals of the white salt iodide of potassium are dissolved in water, and then a little starch paste is added, a very sensitive electrolyte is obtained, which turns to an indigo blue colour at the anode when a very weak current passes through it. The decomposition of the salt liberates iodine at the anode, which, acting on the starch, forms a coloured compound. White blotting-paper, dipped into the prepared liquid, and then laid on the kathode and touched by the anode, affords a convenient way of examining the discoloration due to a current. A solution of Ferrocyanide of Potassium affords similarly on electrolysis the well-known tint of Prussian Blue. Bain proposed to utilise this in a Chemical Writing Telegraph, the short and long currents transmitted along the line from a battery being thus recorded in blue marks on a strip of prepared paper, drawn along by clockwork under the terminal of the positive wire. Faraday showed that chemical discoloration of paper moistened with starch and iodide of potassium was produced by the passage of all different kinds of electricity—frictional, voltaic, thermo-electric, and magneto-electric,—even by that evolved by the Torpedo and the Gymnotus. In fact, he relied on this chemical test as one proof of the identity of the different kinds.

219. Internal and External Actions.—In an earlier Lesson it was shown that the quantity of chemical action inside the cells of the battery was proportional to the strength of the current. Hence, Law (i.) of Art. 211, applies both to the portion of the circuit within the battery and to that without it.

Suppose 3 Daniells's cell are being employed to decompose water in a voltameter. Then while 1 gramme weight (11,200 cub. centims.) of hydrogen and 8 grammes (5,600 c. c.) of oxygen are set free in the voltameter, 31.5 grammes of copper will be deposited in each cell of the battery, and (neglecting loss by local action), 32.5 grammes of zinc will be dissolved in each cell.

220. It will therefore be evident that the electrolytic cell is the converse of the voltaic cell. The chemical work done in the voltaic cell furnishes the energy of the current which that cell sets up in the circuit. In the electrolytic cell chemical work is performed, the necessary energy being furnished by the current of electricity which is sent into the cell from an independent battery or other source.

A theory of electrolysis, and some examples of its application, are given in Chapter XXXVIII on Electro-chemistry.
